

Please join us on December 14th for a panel discussion with Queens Supreme Court Judge Bruna DiBiase, Monroe County District Attorney Sandra Doorley, Legal Aid Society Criminal Appeals Bureau's David Crow, and Survivors Justice Project member Patrice Smith, about how judges, prosecutors, and defense are approaching New York's Domestic Violence Survivors Justice Act, followed by a screening of the award winning DVSJA documentary And So I Stayed. Registration information is below.

DVSJA PANEL & DOCUMENTARY SCREENING OF AND SO I STAYED

"A HEARTFELT WINDOW INTO DOMESTIC ABUSE"
The New York Times

Lawyers Committee
Against Domestic Violence New York

Davis Polk

 Sanctuary
for Families

NYC

Mayor's Office to End Domestic and
Gender-Based Violence

A Panel Discussion About New York's Domestic Violence Survivors
Justice Act - How Judges, Prosecutors, and Defense Are Approaching This Groundbreaking Legislation Followed by a
Virtual Screening of "And So I Stayed" (The Stories of 3 Survivors)

TUESDAY DECEMBER 14 - 5 TO 7:30 P.M. EST

PANELISTS:

Honorable Bruna DiBiase, Queens Supreme Court
District Attorney Sandra Doorley, Monroe County
David Crow, Legal Aid Society, Criminal Appeals Bureau
Patrice Smith, Survivors Justice Project (Resentenced
Under DVSJA)

MODERATED BY:

Dara Sheinfeld, Davis Polk

CLE CREDIT WILL BE PROVIDED

Tuesday, December 14

5:00 p.m. - 7:30 p.m. ET

Click here to register:

Yes, I will attend

Join Meeting

Meeting ID: 927 7130 0988

Meeting Passcode: 562811

Become a QCWBA Member or RENEW Today!